“What a work of art!”

When Mr. Brian Aiken came to Tucker High School six years ago, he brought with him an easy-going demeanor and an unwavering patience that served him well as a teacher first at Shamrock and later at Lithonia. Throw in his unconventional sense of humor, and one understands why his art students admire him as they do.

A product of the sixties and the seventies, Mr. Aiken always has music ranging from rock to classical playing in the background (he considers Jimi Hendrix to be second only to Mozart musically) as he walks among his students and assists them with their jewelry or surface design projects.

With his exceptional artistic ability, Mr. Aiken has helped to mold Tucker's art department into one of the finest in the state, and his students have gone on to win numerous honors, thereby acknowledging his influence on their skills. But his deep compassion for his student is what impresses those who take his classes. Students quickly realize that Mr. Aiken is someone who sincerely cares about them.

Because of his total commitment to his students, the Class of 1999 has proudly selected Mr. Brian Aiken to be its recipient for the 1999 Tiger yearbook dedication.
